ORIENTATION SCAVENGER HUNT

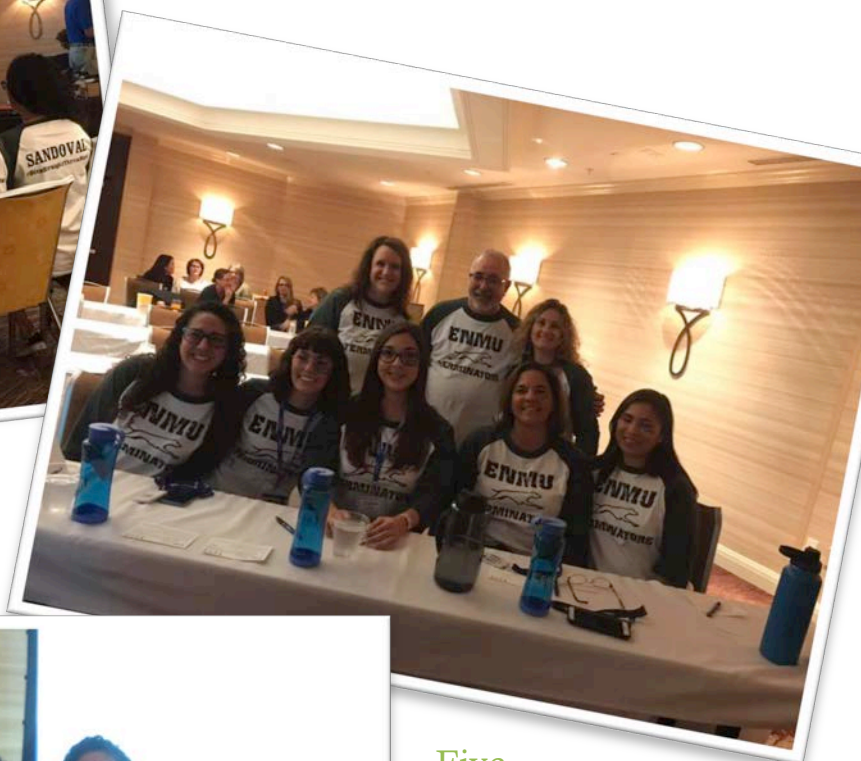

The new graduate students began to get acquainted with one another and the Portales campus during an orientation scavenger hunt on August 16th, 2018. The students were placed in groups and were required to locate multiple important locations on campus including the Graduate School, the Speech and Hearing Rehabilitation Outreach Center, the Dean's Office, the Bookstore, and many more. Teams were required to take photos at each location.

WINNERS!

. Team 3 won for completing the scavenger hunt first. The team members included: Briana Bell, Michelle Du Bois, Lara Fordham, Leanna Gallardo, Ryli Johns, and Chelsea Kohli.

NMSHA 2018

Five graduate students from the Communicative Disorders program won the 2018 EBS Knowledge Bowl in Albuquerque, New Mexico on October 19th. This event is part of the NMSHA's Annual Convention and is a competition between the different graduate

NSSLHA Homecoming

Eastern New Mexico University's "Stone Age" Homecoming parade occurred on October 13th, 2018. The ENMU NSSLHA members participated in the parade by creating a Flintstones-themed float. The focus of the NSSLHA program is to create better communication skills for the state of New Mexico through building awareness and community outreach projects. The current faculty advisors for the organization are Dr. Adrienne Bratcher and Ms. Nicole Bougie.

Halloween Trunk-or-Treat

This year's Halloween marked the first participation of the CDIS graduate program in the ENMU Trunk-or-Treat event. The CDIS Fall 2018 graduate cohort created three separate Trunk-or-Treating stations with games and activities that included a mad science lab, a pumpkin patch, and a large mouth filled with candy. They gave out candy to countless children who participated in the event and promoted the CDIS program in the process. The evening was a great success!
